

Bristol University Press Translation Rights Guide Spring/Summer 2021

New and forthcoming titles in ...

Business and Management
Children, Young People and Families
Community Development
Education
Environment and Sustainability
Health and Social Care
Human Geography

Law
Planning and Housing
Politics and International Relations
Science, Technology and Society
Social and Public Policy
Social Research Methods
Sociology

Bristol University Press Translation Rights Guide

Bristol University Press is unique: it is a young university press with a bold vision that emerges out of Policy Press's long-held, critically acclaimed reputation as a key publisher on social issues, with an ethos of social justice and respect for diversities.

We are committed to publishing the highest-quality scholarship in the social sciences and aligned disciplines and want our work to make a positive contribution, from the advancement of ideas through to practical implementation.

Contents

Why Face-to-Face Still Matters	2
What Have Charities Ever Done for Us?	3
Democratic Decay and Authoritarian Resurgence	4
The Forgotten City	5
Authoritarian Contagion	6
Grand Strategy in 10 Words	7
US Foreign Policy	8
Environmental Anarchy?	9
Forgotten Wives	10
Why Travel?	11
Creative Research Methods in Education	12
Creating Participatory Research	12
Transnational Migration and the New Subjects of Work	13
Resisting Neoliberalism in Education	13
Cyberflashing	13
Between Realism and Revolt	14
Growing Up and Getting By	14
Social Media and the Automatic Production of Memory	14
The Struggle for Social Sustainability	15
Urban Futures	15
Redeeming Leadership	15
Guerrilla Democracy	16
The Pandemic Within	16
Contact details	16

Why Face-to-Face Still Matters The Persistent Power of Cities in the Post-Pandemic Era

Jonathan Reades and Martin Crookston

Key selling points

- Looks at great world cities (including London, New York & Paris) to smaller towns
- Explores the information revolution, the penetration of artificial intelligence (AI) and the COVID-19 pandemic in relation to cities
- Uses interviews with staff and business leaders from high-profile industries

9781529216004
18 Mar 2021
176 pages, £19.99
Human Geography

Jonathan Reades is an Associate Professor in the Centre for Advanced Spatial Analysis at UCL.

Martin Crookston is a strategic planning consultant, with experience ranging from London and Abu Dhabi to Prague and the Paris region.

Global rights available

What makes a great city? Why do people and businesses still value urban life and buildings over a quiet life in the suburbs or countryside? Now might seem a difficult time to make the case for social contact in urban areas - so why is face-to-face connection still considered crucial to many 21st century economies?

Looking back over a century's worth of thinking about cities and using interviews with business leaders and staff from knowledge-intensive, innovation-rich industries, this accessible book explores their ongoing importance as places that thrive on face-to-face meetings, and in negotiating uncertainty and 'sealing the deal'.

Table of contents

- The story so far
- Moving stuff around
- Making markets
- Doing deals
- Talking shop
- Let's talk: F2f interaction now
- So what now for 21st century places?
- And in the end...

"Highly readable and endlessly thought-provoking, this book helps us understand how towns and cities can continue to prosper in the wake of COVID-19 and galloping technological changes."

Shaun Spiers, Green Alliance

What Have Charities Ever Done for Us?

The Stories Behind the Headlines

Stephen Cook and Tania Mason

Key selling points

- Powerful case studies on charities ranging from local to global (e.g. Greenpeace and Oxfam)
- Blends accounts of recent controversies about charities with the history of their achievements and the growing importance of their role in the future
- Written by journalists, it brings the true diversity and richness of charities home to readers

9781447359883
13 Apr 2021
376 pages, £14.99
Social and Public Policy

Stephen Cook is a journalist with extensive experience in national newspapers including 18 years at The Guardian.

Tania Mason is a journalist, copywriter, editor and events-producer with more than 25 years' experience across various industries, most recently charities.

Global rights available

When the coronavirus pandemic took hold early in 2020, charities were among the first to respond to the resulting social and economic distress. But recent scandals and a more critical climate have overshadowed the vital role they play.

This book rebalances the debate, using case studies and interviews to illustrate how charities support people and communities, foster heritage and culture and pioneer responses to crucial social, ethical and environmental questions. It brings to life the breadth and depth of their work and the contribution they make to social progress.

Table of contents

- Introduction
- What are charities, and why do we argue about them?
- Changing the world
- Improving lives and communities
- A junior partner in the welfare state?
- Preserving the past, preparing for the future
- The way ahead

“The charity sector is underappreciated, often patronised and rarely given sufficient credit. I hope this book helps to change that.”

Beth Breeze, Centre for Philanthropy, University of Kent

Democratic Decay and Authoritarian Resurgence

Natasha Lindstaedt

Key selling points

- Accessible and timely textbook which will be of interest across many politics courses
- Author is an expert in this area and has regularly appeared on CNN, and commented for The BBC, France 24, Al Jazeera, and EuroNews
- Examines the key factors in decaying democracies, including economic inequality; corruption; populist and authoritarian discourse; and declining belief in political institutions and processes

9781529210392
28 May 2021
232 pages, £24.99
Politics and International
Relations

Global rights available

Natasha Lindstaedt is Deputy Dean and a Professor in the Department of Government at the University of Essex. She has written widely on authoritarian regimes, democracy, corruption and failed states.

Why do democracies fall apart, and what can be done about it?

This textbook introduces the concept and causes of democratic decay in the modern world, illustrating the integral link between public commitment to democratic norms and the maintenance of healthy democracies. Examining key factors in decaying democracies and drawing on real-world developments, the book outlines the extent to which there is a 'democratic recession' in contemporary politics and how transnational networks and technology are impacting this.

Table of contents

- The current landscape
- Public opinion and norms
- Causes and context
- Symptoms and processes
- Conclusion

"This is an essential read for all students of politics interested in the future of democracy. Lindstaedt is presenting a comprehensive study of a global crisis."
Anja Neundorf, University of Glasgow

The Forgotten City

Rethinking Digital Living for Our People and the Planet

Phil Allmendinger

Key selling points

- Brings together key social justice issues to highlight inequalities in how technologies can exclude people, especially in the aftermath of COVID-19
- Critiques the 'smart city' phenomenon and connects it with the everyday lives of people in cities, climate change and population growth debates
- Author is a world expert on cities, development and urban governance

9781447356011
25 May 2021
264 pages, £19.99
Environment and Sustainability
Global rights available

Phil Allmendinger is Professor of Land Economy and Fellow of Clare College at the University of Cambridge. He is a chartered planner and surveyor and advises governments around the world on future cities, urban issues and smart city development.

We all want cities, where more than half of the world's population currently live, to be just, successful, clean, fair, green, sustainable, safe, healthy and affordable. Will 'smart cities' help achieve these aspirations or undermine them in the time of COVID-19? Focusing on the dangers posed by social media, the platform economy and AI, Allmendinger sets out what those making decisions on city development need to understand in order to save the planet through active politics and healthy cities.

Table of contents

- The city: A tale of two stories
- The smart city story
- Barcelona is not for sale
- Unholy alliance – government, academia, and big tech
- Why we're part of the problem
- An alternative vision
- Yesterday's cities of the future
- It's different this time
- Why bother saving the city?
- Writing a new story of the city

"A vitally needed corrective to so much of the unthinking smart cityism out there promising the taming of wicked urban planning problems. Be distracted by this engaging book instead of your mobile phone or laptop."

Nicholas A. Phelps, The University of Melbourne

Authoritarian Contagion

The Global Threat to Democracy

Luke Cooper

Key selling points

- Connects the rise of authoritarianism with the ecological and economic challenges of the 21st century
- Gives readers a new and deeper insight into the changing nature of the authoritarian threat to democracy
- Draws on examples from around the world to examine the spread of draconian and nationalistic forms of government

9781529217797

1 Jun 2021

160 pages, £9.99

Politics and International
Relations

Global rights available

Luke Cooper is a consultant researcher based at LSE IDEAS, the foreign policy think tank at the London School of Economics and Political Science. He was previously a Visiting Fellow on the Europe's Futures programme at the Institute for Human Sciences in Vienna. He co-runs the Another Europe is Possible podcast.

The 21st century has not seen the triumph of democracy that some predicted, but instead, in many cases, a turn towards authoritarian forms of government as an imagined solution to the many crises facing humanity. This innovative and important book draws on examples from around the world to examine the spread of draconian and nationalistic forms of government: a lurch towards 'authoritarian protectionism' which observes a simple maxim, that 'the world may end for others, but not for us'.

While there is hope that the COVID-19 crisis could lead to a reinvigoration of democracy and a new economic agenda, there is also the risk of a further slide towards authoritarian rule and an urgent need for democratic renewal to combat this.

Table of contents

- A universal crisis
- Coronavirus and the long crisis
- The end of neoliberalism
- Trump versus Xi
- Tyranny of the majority?
- The ideological motifs of apocalypse
- Foot soldiers for apocalypse
- The dangers and the answers

Part of the Bristol University Press Short Insights. These books cover issues of wide interest where a timely intervention is likely to attract substantial media coverage and reach a broad non-specialist audience.

Grand Strategy in 10 Words

A Guide to Great Power Politics in the 21st Century

Sven Biscop

Key selling points

- Author is well-known Director of the Europe in the World Programme at the prestigious Egmont-Royal Institute for International Relations
- Accessible and straightforward language, practical and realistic
- Clear framework that will appeal to general readers, students, practitioners and policy makers

9781529217513
14 Jun 2021
224 pages, £21.99
Politics and International Relations
Dutch rights not available

Sven Biscop is Director of the Europe in the World Programme at the Egmont-Royal Institute for International Relations in Brussels and Professor at Ghent University. He is an Honorary Fellow of the European Security and Defence College (ESDC), and an Officer in the Order of the Crown of the Kingdom of Belgium.

In a world that has returned to great power rivalry, understanding the grand strategy of these powers is crucial. This book introduces ten key terms for analyzing grand strategy and shows how the world's great powers – the United States, China, Russia and the European Union – shape their strategic decisions today. This lively and accessible introduction shows how the choices made in each of these ten areas will determine the course of world politics in the first half of the 21st century.

Table of contents

- Introduction: no peace from corona
- 1. Simple
- 2. Competitive
- 3. Rational
- 4. Allied
- 5. Comprehensive
- 6. Creative
- 7. Agile
- 8. Courageous
- 9. Dirty
- 10. Proactive
- Conclusion: power to engage

“A timely work accessible to practitioners, illuminating to scholars, and instructive to students....elegantly combines theory, history, and current-policy analysis to provide not only a primer on Grand Strategy, but a guide to how to mobilize the concept to understand and navigate an increasingly multi-polar world.”
Barry R. Posen, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

9781529215366

29 Jun 2021

288 pages, £24.99

Politics and International
Relations

Global rights available

US Foreign Policy

Domestic Roots and International Impact

Richard Johnson

Key selling points

- Accessibly written textbook includes helpful illustrative material – covers policy and decisions post-1945 but with a focus on the 21st century
- Structure of the book – 10 concise chapters – fits with a typical-length university course while being more brief and affordable than the often bulky and dense competing textbooks
- Organised around four broad themes relating to US foreign policy: its ideologies; its institutions; the actors who influence and shape its content; the policy goals and ideas which motivate it

Richard Johnson is Lecturer in US Politics & Policy at Queen Mary, University of London.

Paying close attention to its domestic roots, this textbook provides a valuable introduction to the construction and application of US foreign policy in the modern era.

Drawing from analyses of the broader history of US foreign policy throughout the post-World War II period, the book encourages readers to think about how these ideas, institutions and goals have been at work in the foreign policy of recent presidential administrations, including those of George W. Bush, Barack Obama and Donald Trump.

Table of contents

- Introduction
- Part I: The ideologies and languages of US foreign policy
- Part II: The domestic institutions of US foreign policy
- Part III: The politicians and publics of US foreign policy
- Part IV: The goals of US foreign policy

“This book features an excellent blend of historical examples and anecdotes alongside an introduction to key features of US foreign policy making.”

Rubrick Biegon, University of Kent

9781529209396
23 Jul 2021
224 pages, £24.99
Politics and International
Relations
Global rights available

Environmental Anarchy? Security in the 21st Century

Mark Beeson

Key selling points

- Written by a leading figure in International Relations
- Makes the latest security scholarship available to a wider audience while making an original contribution
- Exposes the failures and dangers of conventional wisdom about security and suggests an alternative in a time of environmental crisis

Mark Beeson is Professor of International Politics at the University of Western Australia. His work is centred on the politics, economics and security of the Asia-Pacific region and he has written over 150 journal articles and books. He is the co-editor of Contemporary Politics and the founding editor of Critical Studies of the Asia Pacific (Palgrave).

What does it mean to be secure in the 21st century? This book argues that some of the most influential ideas about global security, including the troubling re-emergence of 'spheres of influence', are outdated products of earlier times that are inappropriate for the modern world. At a time when climate change poses an existential threat to the continuation of life itself, Beeson argues that there is an urgent need to rethink security priorities while we still can. Providing an explanation of the failures and dangers of conventional wisdom, he outlines the case for an approach that takes issues like environmental and human security seriously.

Table of contents

- Introduction
- Getting real: the way the world works?
- Hope springs?
- Environmental security
- The psychological dimensions of security
- (Not so?) grand strategy?
- Unequal security
- Conclusion

Forgotten Wives

How Women Get Written Out of History

Ann Oakley

Key selling points

- Ann Oakley is a leading sociologist and writer who was at the forefront of the second wave of feminism and changed the notion of housework
- Uses case studies of the four wives of famous husbands – Mary Booth, Charlotte Shaw, Jeannette Tawney and Janet Beveridge
- Relevance to current gender debates will make it of interest to general readers

9781447355847
2 Jul 2021
200 pages, £19.99
Social and Public Policy

Ann Oakley is Professor of Sociology and Social Policy at the UCL Social Research Institute. A social researcher for more than 50 years, and author of many academic publications, she is also well known for her biography, autobiography and fiction.

Global rights available

Forgotten Wives examines the ways in which the institution and status of marriage has contributed to the active 'disremembering' of women's achievements. Drawing on archives, biographies, autobiographies and historical accounts, bestselling author and academic Ann Oakley interrogates conventions of history and biography writing using the case studies of four women married to well-known men – Charlotte Shaw, Mary Booth, Jeannette Tawney and Janet Beveridge.

Asking critical questions about the mechanisms which maintain gender inequality, despite thriving feminist and other equal rights movements, she contributes a fresh vision of how the welfare state developed in the early 20th century.

Table of contents

- The condition of wifehood
- Mary Booth
- Charlotte Shaw
- Jeannette Tawney
- Janet Beveridge
- A life of her own

WHY TRAVEL?

UNDERSTANDING OUR NEED TO MOVE
AND HOW IT SHAPES OUR LIVES

9781529216370
1 Jul 2021
286 pages, £25.99
Human Geography

Global rights available

Why Travel?

Understanding our Need to Move and How it Shapes our Lives

Edited by Matthew Niblett and Kris Beuret

Key selling points

- Written by a team of international expert contributors
- Images throughout
- Written in an accessible and engaging style, the book will interest and inspire a wide audience working in and studying travel and transport, and general readers with an interest in travel

Kris Beuret OBE is the Director of Social Research Associates and has advised the House of Commons Transport Committee, TfL, the DfT and overseas governments on disability and diversity issues.

Matthew Niblett is Director of the Independent Transport Commission and a Fellow of the Royal Society of Arts.

Supported by the Independent Transport Commission (ITC): a registered charity.

This book brings together leading experts to show how our travel choices are shaped by a wide range of social, physical, psychological and cultural factors, which have profound implications for the design of future transport policies.

Offering thought-provoking and practical new perspectives, this fascinating book will be essential for all those who have ever wondered why we travel and how it relates to our fundamental needs.

Table of contents

- Why travel? An introduction
- Part I: Fundamental motivations
- Part II: Travel for exploration and knowing ourselves
- Part III: Limits and new horizons
- Conclusion: What have we learnt?

CREATIVE RESEARCH METHODS IN EDUCATION

Principles and Practices

Helen Kara, Narelle Lemon, Dawn Mannay
and Megan McPherson

9781447357070

16 Mar 2021

208 pages, £27.99

Social Research Methods

Global rights available

CREATING PARTICIPATORY RESEARCH

PRINCIPLES, PRACTICE AND REALITY

Louise Warwick-Booth,
Anne-Marie Bagnall and Susan Coan

9781447352372

27 Apr 2021

184 pages, £27.99

Social Research Methods

Global rights available

Creative Research Methods in Education

Principles and Practices

Helen Kara, Narelle Lemon, Dawn Mannay and
Megan McPherson

Co-authored by an international team of experts across disciplines, this important textbook is one of the first to demonstrate the enormous benefit creative methods offer for education research. It illustrates how using creative methods, such as poetic inquiry, theatre and animation, can support learning and illuminate participation and engagement.

“Bursting with case studies and practical advice, this book is an important source of inspiration and guidance for early career researchers and students seeking to use creative methods in education research.”

Helen Lomax, University of Huddersfield

Creating Participatory Research

Principles, Practice and Reality

Louise Warwick-Booth, Anne-Marie Bagnall and
Susan Coan

What is participatory research, and how can participatory methods be implemented in practice?

This valuable textbook provides an accessible, pragmatic how-to guide for using participatory methods in research. Drawing on their variety of experience in the field, the authors outline the principles of participatory research, explore the practice of using participatory methods, and lay out the realities of using such approaches within a range of settings.

This textbook will be an essential resource for students and researchers alike.

Transnational Migration and the New Subjects of Work

Transmigrants, Hybrids and Cosmopolitans

Banu Özkazanç-Pan

The first to use transnational migration studies as a new theoretical framework in management and organization studies, this book presents a much-needed new concept for understanding people, work and organizations in a world on the move.

9781529204599 | Mar 2021 | 174 pp | £26.99 | Business and Management |
Global rights available

Resisting Neoliberalism in Education

Local, National and Transnational Perspectives

Edited by Lyn Tett and Mary Hamilton

Neoliberalism is having a detrimental impact on wider social and ethical goals in the field of education. Using an international range of contexts, this book provides practical examples that demonstrate how neoliberalism can be challenged and changed at the local, national and transnational level.

9781447350071 | Mar 2021 | 290 pp | £26.99 | Education |
Global rights available

Cyberflashing

Recognising Harms, Reforming Laws

Clare McGlynn and Kelly Johnson

Cyberflashing has been on the rise since the COVID-19 pandemic. This book provides new analysis into the harms of cyberflashing. This timely and unique study considers recent laws in several countries and sets out proposals to criminalize cyberflashing in English law.

9781529217629 | Mar 2021 | 160 pp | £12.99 | Law |
Global rights available

Between Realism and Revolt

Governing Cities in the Crisis of Neoliberal Globalism

Jonathan S. Davies

Leading governance theorist Jonathan S. Davies develops a rich comparative analysis of austerity governance and resistance in eight cities, to establish a conjunctural perspective on the rolling crises of neoliberal globalism.

9781529210927 | Mar 2021 | 224 pp | £26.99 | Politics and International Relations |
Global rights available

Growing Up and Getting By

International Perspectives on Childhood and Youth in Hard Times

Edited by John Horton, Helena Pimlott-Wilson and Sarah Marie Hall

This book explores how children, young people and families cope with situations of socioeconomic poverty and precarity in diverse international contexts.

9781447352891 | Apr 2021 | 304 pp | £80.00 | Children, Young People and Families |
Global rights available

Social Media and the Automatic Production of Memory

Classification, Ranking and the Sorting of the Past

Ben Jacobsen and David Beer

Content from the past is increasingly being presented in the form of 'memories' by social media platforms. Critically exploring this new form of memory making, this unique book asks how social media are beginning to change the way we remember.

9781529218152 | Apr 2021 | 128 pp | £40.00 | Science, Technology and Society |
Global rights available

The Struggle for Social Sustainability Moral Conflicts in Global Social Policy

Edited by Christopher Deeming

Leading interdisciplinary scholars focus on the 'social' of social policy. This groundbreaking volume tackles pressing social questions and critically engages with contested conceptions of 'the social' which are increasingly deployed by international institutions and policy makers.

9781447356103 | Apr 2021 | 272 pp | £75.00 | Social and Public Policy |
Global rights available

Urban Futures Planning for City Foresight and City Visions

Timothy J. Dixon and Mark Tewdwr-Jones

City visions represent shared and often desirable expectations about our urban futures. This book explores the history and evolution of city visions, placing them in the wider context of art, culture, science, foresight and urban theory.

9781447330936 | May 2021 | 232 pp | £75.00 | Planning and Housing |
Global rights available

Redeeming Leadership An Anti-Racist Feminist Intervention

Helena Liu

This thought-provoking new study shows how anti-racist feminism can reinvigorate leadership theory and practice, which have long been dominated by imperialist, masculinist and white supremacist agendas. Theoretically rigorous and with examples from around the world, it states the case for a bold reimagining of leadership.

9781529200065 | Jul 2021 | 216 pp | £26.99 | Business and Management |
Global rights available

Bristol University Press Translation Rights Guide

Organizations and Activism

Guerrilla Democracy

Mobile Power and Revolution in the 21st Century

PETER BLOOM
OWAIN SMOLOVIĆ JONES
JAMIE WOODCOCK

Guerrilla Democracy

Mobile Power and Revolution in the 21st Century

Peter Bloom, Owain Smolović Jones and Jamie Woodcock

Combining cutting-edge theories with empirical research, this timely book offers an analysis of current platform-based radical movements to show how digital technologies revolutionize political and economic organizing. This is an invaluable contribution to the literature on the relation of technology and society.

9781529205640 | Jul 2021 | 200 pp | £26.99 | Business and Management |
Global rights available

The Pandemic Within

Policy Making for a Better World

Hendrik Wagenaar and Barbara Prainsack

This book explores the problems laid bare by COVID-19 through concepts of complexity and hegemony. Covering housing, work, finance, climate and democracy, it provides comprehensive and interconnected proposals for a more sustainable, just and humane new 'normal' for our post-COVID world.

9781447362234 | Aug 2021 | 152 pp | £24.99 | Social and Public Policy |
Global rights available

For all translation queries, please contact Jo Greig and Georgie Aldridge:

Jo Greig
e: jo.greig@bristol.ac.uk

Georgie Aldridge
e: georgie.aldrige@bristol.ac.uk

Bristol University Press, 1-9 Old Park Hill, Bristol, BS2 8BB

Browse our full range of titles by subject or download our catalogue at bristoluniversitypress.co.uk.

Cover image from Tim Mossholder on Unsplash