

Criminology, Criminal Justice & Policing

Spring/Summer 2023

Welcome

Our growing Criminology list takes a critical stance and features boundary pushing work with innovative, research-led publications. We welcome interdisciplinary work, new and exciting research methods, theory-based texts and policy orientated publications. We also have dedicated Criminal Justice and Policing list, published under our Policy Press imprint, and a range of exciting series. A particular focus of all our books is engaging with global social challenges, both on a local and international level. We aim to publish books in a wide range of formats that will have real impact and shape public discourse, and always welcome new ideas.

If you are interested in writing for our Criminology list, please contact me at rebekah.taylor@bristol.ac.uk or visit our information for authors page to download our proposal guidelines. You can also follow me on Twitter @RebekahLTaylor

50 Dark Destinations

Crime and Contemporary Tourism

Edited by Adam Lynes, Birmingham City University, Craig Kelly, Birmingham City University and James Treadwell, Staffordshire University

"A fascinating travelogue of trouble. The tourist gaze that animates the book is particularly chilling, revealing the global span of crime – and the insatiable global appetite for crime's ghostly residues."
JEFF FERRELL, AUTHOR OF DRIFT: ILLICIT MOBILITY AND UNCERTAIN KNOWLEDGE

"Infused with interesting facts and sharp observations about famous and not so famous 'destinations' all over the world, this book is a page-turner. Simultaneously cool and serious, rich and approachable, 50 Dark Destinations will provide you with a fresh way of viewing leisure, place and culture."
GEORGIOS A. ANTONOPOULOS, NORTHUMBRIA UNIVERSITY

From the Alcatraz East Crime Museum and Jack the Ripper guided tours to Phnom Pehn Killing Fields, 'dark tourism' is now a multi-million-pound global industry. Highlighting 50 travel destinations across six continents, expert criminologists, psychologists and historians explore the past and contemporary issues which we often disregard during our everyday leisure.

This captivating book is the 'go-to' guide for anyone interested in crime and deviance-related tourism. Accessible and digestible, it exposes a worrying trend in contemporary consumer culture, in which many of us partake.

Defund the Police

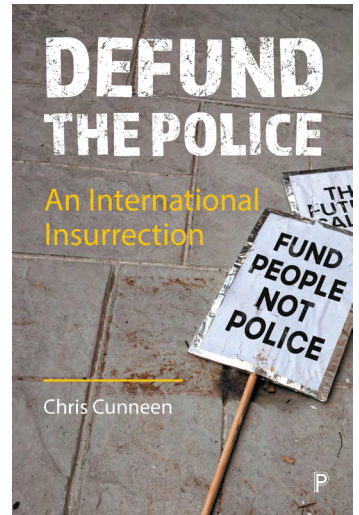

An International Insurrection

Chris Cunneen, University of Technology Sydney and
Amanda Porter, Melbourne Law School

In western liberal democracies the police are viewed as guardians of public safety and enforcers of the law. How accurate is this? Given police violence and the failure of many attempts at reform, attention has turned to other models of managing criminality, including defunding the police and instead funding alternatives to criminalisation and incarceration.

This book is the first comprehensive overview of police divestment, using international examples and case studies to reimagine community safety beyond policing and imprisonment.

Showcasing a range of practical examples, this topical book will be relevant for academics, policy makers, activists and all those interested in the Black Lives Matter movement, protest movements and the renewed interest in policing and abolitionism more generally.

A Guide to Prisons and Penal Policy

Prisons Unlocked

Rachel Vipond, University of York

"This is a great, comprehensive and accessible introduction to prisons and punishment. I have no doubt it will be a popular text with those students of Penology, Criminology and Criminal Justice. It deserves to be."

JAMES TREADWELL, STAFFORDSHIRE UNIVERSITY

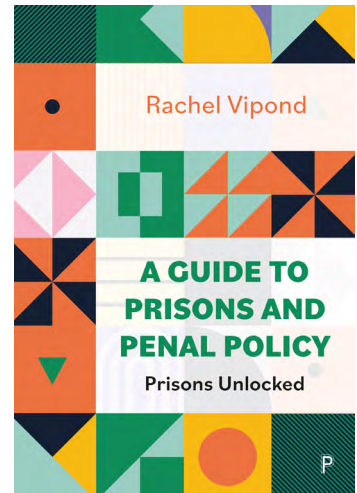

Understanding prisons and the policies surrounding them is of fundamental importance to students and practitioners of Criminology and related fields. This concise and accessible guide offers a compendium of key information, theories, concepts, research and policy, presenting a rounded and critical overview of the prison system in England and Wales.

Covering the historical and contemporary context of prisons, the text guides the reader through prison life as experienced by different groups such as women, the work of prison officers and a tour of international prisons.

Each chapter features key learning items:

- an overview and summary;
- learning outcomes;
- end of chapter questions;
- definitions of key terms and concepts;
- examples and illustrative case studies;
- summary boxes of key research studies and further reading.

Focusing on the experiences of stakeholder groups and the themes of power, legitimacy and rehabilitation, the book concludes with an overview of the future challenges for prisons.

Forensic Psychology, Crime and Policing

Key Concepts and Practical Debates

Karen Corteen, Rachael Steele, Noel Cross and Michelle McManus, Liverpool John Moores University

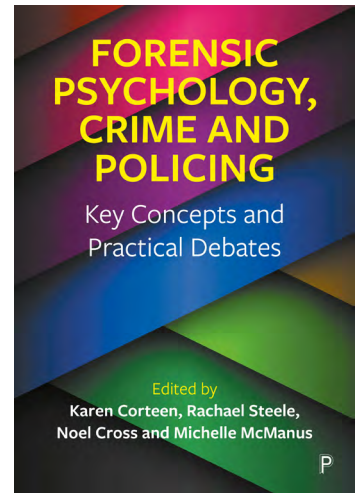

A key resource for students, academics and practitioners, this concise guide brings together various concepts vital to the theoretical, policy and practical debates on forensic psychology and its relationship with crime, policing and policing studies.

Covering issues such as criminal behaviour, police decision making and crime scene investigation, each entry provides a succinct overview of the topic, together with an evaluation of the emerging issues.

The text includes:

- associated concepts and further reading from research and practice;
- sample questions;
- references and glossary.

Accessible and comprehensive, this book is the go-to guide for those getting to grips with the relationships between forensic psychology, crime and policing.

The War on Dirty Money

Nicholas Gilmour, consultant and Tristram Hicks, international criminal justice advisor

"Bang on the (dirty) money. This book is for anyone that wants to understand the problem, why we're failing and what can be done about it."

DAVID LEWIS, FINANCIAL ACTION TASK FORCE EXECUTIVE SECRETARY 2015–2022

Billions of dollars are wasted each year trying to prevent 'dirty money' entering a financial system that is already awash with it. The authors challenge the global approach, arguing that complacency, self-interest and misunderstanding have now created long-standing absurdities.

International and government policy makers inadvertently facilitate tax evasion, corruption, environmental and organised crime by separating crime from its root cause. The handful of crime-fighters that do exist are starved of resources while an army of compliance box-tickers are prevented from truly helping. The authors provide a toolbox of evidence-based solutions to help the frontline tackle financial crime.

Island Criminology

John Scott, Queensland University of Technology and Zoe Staines, University of Queensland

"Insightful, analytical and compassionate, Scott and Staines give voice to the most marginalised, shedding light on the complex dynamics of colonisation and policing in the remotest parts of the world. This is a must-read on an under-researched topic. A story that needs to be told and heard."

LARISSA BEHRENDT, UNIVERSITY OF TECHNOLOGY SYDNEY

Ten per cent of the world's population lives on islands, but until now the place and space characteristics of islands in criminological theory have not been deeply considered. This book addresses issues of how, and by whom, crime is defined in island settings, and which crimes are policed and visible, informed by the distinctive social structures of their communities.

Visual Criminology

Bill McClanahan, Eastern Kentucky University

"In this concise, innovative, accessible and provocative book, Bill McClanahan opens up a new vision for criminological inquiry. Original, bold and ambitious – this is an important and timely book that is a pleasure to read."

EAMONN CARRABINE, UNIVERSITY OF ESSEX

In this pioneering work, Bill McClanahan provides a concise and lively overview of visual criminology. With examples of the most prominent methods at work in visual criminology, this book explores the visual perspective in relation to prisons, police, the environment and drugs, while noting the complex ethical implications embedded in visual research.

Practical Psychology for Policing

Jason Roach, University of Huddersfield

"Combines an appreciation of policing skills based on front-line experience with a demonstration of how such skills can be enhanced by up-to-date research in psychology."

KEN PEASE, UNIVERSITY COLLEGE LONDON

This textbook investigates how psychological research can be applied to practical policing. It explores new ways psychological knowledge can be used in broad areas of policing and uniquely demonstrates its use in specific aspects of practical policing. Encouraging critical reflection, this book is essential reading for practitioners and students.

"While politicians scratch their heads and the media sensationalise, the reasons behind young working-class people's engagement in drug dealing and territorial gangs are mostly ignored. This book opens up a world where families fear for their youngsters' lives, and yet London keeps moving as if they don't matter."

LISA MCKENZIE, UNIVERSITY OF BEDFORDSHIRE

With fascinating ethnographic and interview data, James Alexander explores the disappearance of localised relationships and the rise in youth violence in a South London housing estate. Evaluating the effectiveness of youth work programmes, he considers the impact of the gradual move from neighbourly to professional support for young people.

Contesting County Lines

Case Studies in Drug Crime and Deviant Entrepreneurship

James Densley, Metro State University,
Robert McLean and Carlton Brick,
University of the West of Scotland

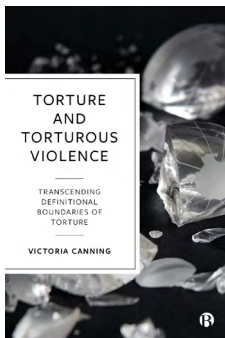

"This book challenges traditional explanations that people drawn into County Lines are inadequate. The life stories are raw, violent, challenging and totally engrossing. Ethnographic research at its best. Highly recommended."

ANTHONY GOODMAN, MIDDLESEX UNIVERSITY

Combining a compulsive read with rigorous academic analysis, this book tells the real-life stories of drug dealers involved in county lines networks. This myth-busting, accessible book offers a new way of thinking about drug crime prevention, intervention and enforcement.

Torture and Torturous Violence

Transcending Definitions of Torture

Victoria Canning, University of Bristol

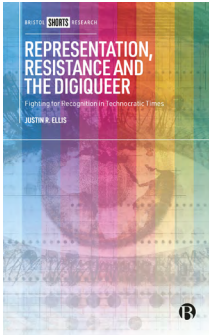

"Canning's account of endemic torturous violence is expansive. She lays bare the gendered experiences and impacts of torture, and exposes the fragility of law, the burdens of shame and the struggles against trauma. A compelling book."

ELIZABETH STANLEY, VICTORIA UNIVERSITY OF WELLINGTON

With growing recognition that torture is too narrowly defined in law, this book offers a nuanced reflection on the definition of torturous violence, and its implications for survivors. Drawing on a decade of research with psychologists and women seeking asylum, Canning sets out the implications of social silencing of torture.

Southern and Postcolonial Perspectives on Policing, Security and Social Order

Edited by Roxana Pessoa Cavalcanti and Zoha Waseem, University of Brighton and Peter Squires, University of Warwick

"This book emphasizes new perspectives from the Global South, always from rigorous and systematic points of view. This is a significant piece of criminological study, which will undoubtedly be able to reach different audiences interested in the issues debated."

MARCOS CESAR ALVAREZ, UNIVERSITY OF SÃO PAULO

Post-colonial legacies continue to impact upon the Global South and this edited collection explores their influence on systems of policing and social ordering. Expanding the Southern Criminology agenda, the book critically examines social and environmental harms, violence and war crimes, human rights abuses and the criminalisation of protest.

Journal of Gender-Based Violence

Volume 7 | 2023 | 3 issues

SCOPUS CITESCORE 1.4

Editor in Chief: Marianne Hester, University of Bristol, UK

Editors: Nadia Aghtaie, University of Bristol, UK, Lis Bates, The Open University, UK, Geetanjali Gangoli, Durham University, UK, Jade Levell, Natasha Mulvihill, William Turner, Aisha Gill and Julia Viebach, University of Bristol, UK

"The multidisciplinary approach of the Journal will not only provide a scholarly illumination of the complexity of the issue, but also offers a place for transforming knowledge into innovative responses."

PATRICK O'LEARY, GRIFFITH UNIVERSITY, AUSTRALIA

The Journal of Gender-Based Violence is the first international journal based in Europe to showcase the work of scholars across disciplinary and topic boundaries, and from a range of methodologies.

The journal acknowledges both the breadth of gender-based violence (GBV) and its links to gendered inequalities. It aims to continue to document the voices and experiences of victims and survivors of GBV, to publish work regarding those who perpetrate GBV and to uncover the varied and complex social structures, inequalities and gender norms through which GBV is produced and sustained.

The journal recognises the intersection of gender with other identities and power relations, such as ethnicity, nationality, sexuality, faith, disability and economic status.

The Journal of Gender-Based Violence is published by Policy Press on behalf of the Centre for Gender and Violence Research at the University of Bristol.

EUROPEAN GROUP
FOR THE STUDY OF DEVIANCE & SOCIAL CONTROL

"This journal is an essential purchase, and will continue to bridge the gap between academics, practitioners and activists in a way not seen by academic journals."

CRAIG KELLY, BIRMINGHAM CITY UNIVERSITY, UK

Justice, Power and Resistance is an international, peer-reviewed journal promoting critical analysis and connecting theory, politics and activism. Working towards social justice, state accountability and decarceration, the journal is primarily a vehicle to make accessible and advance challenging research and scholarship that can be utilised to critically inform contemporary debates and policies.

Originally based within the European Group for the Study of Deviance and Social Control, the journal invites academics, practitioners and activists to think critically about the concepts of justice and power, and what the implications of these are for the lives of people most affected by social harms.
